The majority of Alaska's landfills are being closed, although the closure of the city of Fairbanks has resulted in a new landfill nearby.

At the same time, the U.S. has been able to make significant gains in the area of human rights, and we intend to continue to work closely with the U.S. State Department to ensure that these gains are maintained.

In the meantime, we will continue to work closely with the U.S. State Department to ensure that the U.S. remains committed to human rights and to the rule of law.

We believe that the U.S. has a strong interest in ensuring that the U.S. remains committed to human rights and to the rule of law.

There were about 100 people in the hall, and the speaker was very enthusiastic. He said that he was very happy to see everyone there and that he was very proud of the work that they had done. He also said that he was very grateful for the support that they had given him. He ended his speech with a thank you to everyone and a promise to continue to work hard for the future.

The United Nations' Declaration on the Rights of the Child (1959) and the Convention on the Rights of the Child (1989) are the most widely cited international instruments relating to the rights of children. The Declaration states that 'the child, by reason of his or her immaturity, needs special safeguards and care, even such as may include the law's special protection'.

From the fact is, experience is gained, it is better observed in that they should be taken, for a lot of it is not possible to observe in depth, for example, the way.

We Can Do It Again!

*Statement of the "Hyatt 10"
July 8, 2006*

Exactly a year ago from today, we rendered our collective irrevocable resignation from the Arroyo cabinet and asked President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo to make the supreme sacrifice and voluntarily relinquish her office.

Today, we stand united—with deeper concern and firmer resolve—that our position has not changed:

- Government remains a critical arena for implementing wide-ranging reforms in our country;
- Leadership is at the heart of effective governance;
- Without credible and legitimate leadership, governance will be confined to the margins and reforms cannot take place, much less be sustained;
- Sustained and substantial reforms can only come about if they address the systemic nature of our problems.

Over time, despite the suppression of efforts to get to the bottom of the ongoing crisis, this reality is clear: widespread irregularities and illegal use of public funds tainted the victory of Arroyo in the 2004 elections, extensive cover-up was perpetuated to hide the fraud and authoritarian measures were employed to stifle protest by an enraged citizenry. Thankfully, the Supreme Court rose to the occasion and affirmed the primacy of our people's fundamental civil and political rights over exaggerated threats to the security of the state.

To divert people's attention, the Palace thrust upon our people a bogus people's initiative to amend the Constitution. Deceptively, it has been presented to our people as the answer to every conceivable problem that we face. Fortunately, our people's vigilance and determination have so far frustrated this move. Moreover, the potentially unconstitutional initiative has only succeeded in broadening the opposition to Arroyo's attempts to tamper with our Constitution.

And as the people's initiative heads to disaster, the Arroyo administration has unleashed another diversionary ploy by raising the commercial lobby and elected policy in addressing the insurgency movement from negotiations to a heavily-funded, militarized approach. As we had previously learned during the Marcos years, this approach cannot and will not succeed. It will only escalate the conflict and lead to the calculation of lost lives and death to, not only the insurgents, but, in most cases, its potential, church workers, peasant leaders, legitimate activists, and helpless and innocent civilians.

In this climate of fear and inquiry, the Arroyo administration appears to have succeeded in frustrating our people's search for truth. It must not delude itself in thinking itself victorious, as it has proclaimed recently. There are no victors in this continuing injustice—only victims. And the biggest casualties are our deeply cynical and ever suffering poor themselves and our much weakened social, economic and political institutions.

Under these circumstances, it is almost imperative to push urgent and vital reforms without awaiting the political impulse dictated by the central question of the legitimacy of President Arroyo. For this reason, we propose the following immediate measures:

1. Amend specific provisions of the Constitution to pave the way for (a) the bicameral COMELEC, (b) the holding of snap elections for the position of President, and (c) the election of delegates to a Constitutional Convention, at the same time as the May, 2007 elections;
2. Create an orderly and peaceful climate for the conduct of the above electoral exercises by (a) a temporary cessation of hostilities and laying and strengthening the ground for peace negotiations with the rebels, and (b) a joint declaration among the major forces in the political spectrum to abide by a set of conditions for the successful conduct of the above process without resort to violence and fraud;
3. Ensure basic social protection and services that will address the needs of our people for basic education, nutrition, primary health and sanitation;
4. Secure the fiscal health of the economy by improving the country's tax effort, plugging leakages in tax collection, rationalizing public expenditures, and the timely passage of a national budget; and
5. Restore people's confidence in key oversight and regulatory agencies of government and Constitutional bodies, such as the Office of the Ombudsman, the Civil Service Commission, and the Presidential Commission on Good Governance.

But, recognizing that profound and sustained systemic change is not solely the business of government but is the collective responsibility of all citizens, we also propose the convening of a multi-stakeholder assembly of leaders that will work alongside the Constitutional Convention in a dialogue process that will lead to an agenda for national reconciliation, peace, and sustained development.

In the past, we have shown our capacity to rise above our own bitterness and sense of hopelessness, emerging the worst during some of our darkest moments with a recommitment of our goodness, goodwill, and courage as a people. We can do it again!

Lafayette test run gets green light

WASHINGTON, July 1 — The Department of Energy and the Department of Transportation have given the go-ahead for a test run of the proposed New York City area transit system, known as the "Lafayette" project. The test run will involve a 10-mile stretch of the system, from the Port Authority Bus Terminal to the World Trade Center. The test run is expected to begin in the fall of 1997.

Favored Warriors open bid vs Falcons

By James W. O'Neil

with the Warriors

MANILA (AP) — The Philippine Basketball Association (PBA) season opener was a close contest between the Warriors and the Falcons. The Warriors, who were the defending champions, opened their season with a narrow victory over the Falcons. The game was a tactical battle, with both teams showing strong defensive play. The Warriors' defense was particularly effective in the second half, holding the Falcons to a low scoring output. The Falcons, on the other hand, relied heavily on their star player, who led the team in scoring. Despite his efforts, the Falcons were unable to overcome the Warriors' defense. The game was a testament to the competitive nature of the PBA and the high level of skill of the players involved.

Coping and living with diabetes

By Christa E. Brown

A lot of people with diabetes are unaware of the signs and symptoms of the disease, and many are not taking the necessary steps to manage it. This is especially true for those who are not aware of the importance of regular medical check-ups and blood sugar monitoring.

Living with diabetes

Diabetes is a chronic condition that affects the body's ability to produce or use insulin properly. It can lead to a variety of complications, including heart disease, kidney failure, and blindness. However, with proper management, people with diabetes can live healthy and active lives. Regular medical check-ups and blood sugar monitoring are essential for managing the condition.

Early warning signs

Many people with diabetes experience early warning signs such as increased thirst, frequent urination, and fatigue. These symptoms can be easily overlooked or attributed to other factors, so it's important to be aware of them and seek medical attention if they persist.

Diabetologists: the silent epidemic

By Christa E. Brown

Diabetologists are specialists who focus on the treatment and management of diabetes. They work closely with patients to develop personalized treatment plans and monitor their progress. The prevalence of diabetes is increasing worldwide, making the role of diabetologists increasingly important.

Diabetologists are the silent epidemic

Diabetologists are often referred to as the silent epidemic because they are not always well-known or understood. However, their work is crucial in helping people with diabetes manage their condition and prevent complications. They provide education, support, and medical expertise to their patients.

Fructose with Science

By Christa E. Brown

Fructose is a natural sugar found in fruits and honey. It is often used as a sweetener in processed foods and beverages. While it is a natural sugar, excessive consumption of fructose can lead to health problems, including obesity, insulin resistance, and heart disease. Understanding the science behind fructose is important for making informed choices about diet and health.
